

DREAMS

A dream is beautiful yet so strange

Lighter than air

But will never fade away,

I dream to perform

My true destiny in life,

Reveal hidden fears

And forgotten nightmares,

I dream of a wonderland

Where ever I stand,

I dream of sailing through life

Finding my way on to the deck of happiness,

Reality whispering to fantasy

But all is not as it seems

When I open my eyes it goes away
Even if I want it to stay
When I discard it
Like an unfashionable hat
It entices me in ecstasy
And pulls me back to its embrace
In my own world, my dreams are a reality
And my desires are the future.